

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

LEGAL.

A. D. DICKSON, Barrister, Advocate, Solicitor, etc.
Office, first door south of the Queen's Hotel, Qu'Appelle St.

MEDICAL.

D. R. E. CARTHEW, Qu'Appelle. Physician, Surgeon, Coroner Etc. Graduate Toronto University and Licentiate College Physicians and Surgeons, Ont.

W. HENDERSON, M.D.C.M., Graduate of McGill University, Licentiate of College of Physicians and Surgeons, N.W.T. Office at home.

AUCTIONEER.

G. S. DAVIDSON,
Licensed Auctioneer for the Territories.

ARRANGEMENTS can be made at the Masses-Holmes offices at Qu'Appelle Station, Indian Head or Nisqually. All sales will receive prompt attention.

BUSINESS CARDS.

MEETINGS

THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL, of South Qu'Appelle meets the first Monday of each month. The Secretary-Treasurer will be in the office to attend to business every Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Applications for Resident Traders' Licenses, to Rent the Town Hall, and for Internments in the Cemetery must be made to Frank Amas, J. C. STARR Sec. Treas.

J. E. ROBINSON,
Contractor & Builder

Estimates given and all work promptly attended to.

Undertaking

In all its branches carefully attended to

HUNTER'S DRUG STORE

("If You Get It at Hunter's It's Good")

It Is An Established Fact

That, when you want a really good article and wish to secure first quality you must go to the Drug Store. It is a chemist's business to know pure drugs from impure. Give a positive guarantee of the quality of all drugs and supplies for stock purposes. Below is a list of drugs that farmers and ranchers need from time to time:

SALT PETRE
SULPHUR
FOSPHORUS
COPPERAS
GENTIAN

SWEET NITRE
TURPENTINE
RAW LINSEED OIL
CARBOLIC ACID
CRUDE CASTOR OIL

MACHINE OIL
PURE CASTLE SOAP
INSECT POWDER
GLAUBER SALTS
EISOM SALTS

My prices on the above will be found the lowest compatible with quality. When large quantities are desired special quotations will be made.

I want all the drug trade that is to be done in this part of the country, and I have put here for your examination and inspection as complete and extensive a stock of drugs as can be found in the Territories. Every detail of the business has my personal attention, and any order sent to me will be attended to as promptly as if you were present yourself.

Optical Department.

The Most Important Branch

Of my business, next to drugs, is the optical business. When your eyes burn or pain or tire easily, causing headache, it is high time to look to them. Eyes that tire easily call for help, and properly adjusted glasses afford the only assistance possible. I am sole agent for Assiniboia for the famous B. Lawrence glasses. I have the largest stock of lenses in the Territories - can fit any case where the eye is not too badly diseased. Do not delay getting a pair of glasses if your eyes trouble you, for every hour you delay only aggravates the trouble. Call and have your eyes examined FREE OF CHARGE, and then you will be convinced whether you need glasses or not.

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHIC SUPPLIES.

All the different supplies such as developers, fixers, printing papers, plates, rollers, tripods, cameras, printing frames, plate holders and mounts can be had from me.

W. H. HUNTER,

Dispensing Chemist & Optician
Qu'Appelle Station, Assn. N. W. T.

A. HOLLINGSHEAD,

House, Sign and Carriage Painter.

Graining, Glazing, Paper Hanging

and Kalsomining

ALL WORK PROMPTLY EXECUTED.

QU'APPELLE STATION and INDIAN HEAD

Western Co-Operative Loan & Investment Co.

Head office, 383 Main St., WINNIPEG

Qu'Appelle Advisory Board:

President, W. L. Wait; vice-President, Joseph E. Law; Directors, C. G. Saunders, Esq., Harry Gordon, Esq., R. Dale, Esq.; Valuator, James McKinnon;

Secretary-Treasurer and Agent, A. Matheson

Loans made on Real Estate in Town and Country. Issues Prepaid stock at 6 per cent, and share in profits. Fully paid stock at 7 per cent. Monthly installment stock maturing in 8, 10 and 12 years.

WM. ALLEN, General Agent, Grenfell, N. W. T.

S. H. Caswell & Co.,

BANKERS,

Financial and Insurance Agents

COLLECTIONS SOLICITED - RETURNS PROMPTLY MADE.

Four Per Cent. Interest Allowed on Deposit Accounts.

CORRESPONDENTS:

MOLSON'S BANK, Winnipeg.
Drafts paid at par in all parts of Canada at the Molson's Bank.

Cheques and Drafts for all parts of the World Bought and Sold.

Qu'Appelle Station. - A. S. S.

Calgary Fair.

Interesting Items Culled from the Calgary Herald.

The exhibition was the most successful ever held in the ranching city. A snow storm on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 14 and 15, hindered some of the sports but did not spoil the Fair. The show of horses and cattle was not so large as might be expected in a ranching district, but the exhibits were of excellent quality. Large crowds were in attendance and a hearty welcome was given. Lieut. Governor and Madame Forget who were present to open the Fair. Among those present from this neighborhood were Mr. and Miss McKay and A. W. Sherwood, Indian Head; Mr. and Mrs. C. Fetherstonhaugh, Fort Qu'Appelle, and Mr. and Mrs. B. Harvey and Messrs. A. D. Dickson, J. H. McCaul and E. W. Miller, Qu'Appelle.

One of the great attractions was the gymkhana in which our representatives made a splendid showing. McCaul took first prize in the quarter mile scurry, bending race and half mile hurdle race and second in the ladies' nomination race. Harvey got first in the brandy and soda race and third in the cigar and umbrella race.

In the Polo match, Calgary vs. Qu'Appelle, the former team won by six goals to none.

Mr. J. R. Campbell, manager of the Qu'Appelle creamery, entered in the creamery butter competition and secured first prize for the best two packages in 28 pound boxes.

The horse, cattle, and sheep and swine breeders took advantage of the gathering to meet and organize. Messrs. Blyden and Peterson of the Department of Agriculture, were present to assist in the organization.

Correspondence.

Farmers' Markets.

"TOWNSMAN" DISCUSSES MR. EDMUND'S PAPER

To the Editor of THE PROGRESS.

DEAR SIR: I have read Mr. Edmund's paper in your issue of Sept. 20 with much interest. It is in many respects eminently practical and my object in writing is not so much to criticize as to discuss and emphasize some of the points he makes.

Mr. Edmund neglected to mention the fact that the present government is taking great credit to itself for having settled the grain question by its new elevator bill yet it allows only one that warehouse at any point. This is not sufficient and the farmers should see to it that their interests are more fully conserved by inducing the government to allow more warehouses.

He is a little astray on the handling of produce in town as we have dealers in oats, potatoes and other products. His claim is excusable, however, since those who have these articles for sale seldom or never advertise them. At least I can find but one advertisement relating to them in your paper.

He is perfectly correct regarding the creamery. He says "the owners of cows will do well to stick to the creameries." But do they? Herein many farmers are at fault. They do not value the boon offered them. Though this year, from all I can learn, promises to be the most prosperous in the history of the Qu'Appelle creamery yet the product might be easily doubled if the farmers supported it as they should.

Mr. Edmund's objection to towns people keeping cattle, pigs, poultry etc., is rather amusing. Is he willing to peddle milk through the town winter and summer at a low price? If not, why no other farmer will do so how can towns

(Continued on page 4)

THE Qu'Appelle Furniture Co.

Has now the Largest and Most Complete Stock of Home Furnishings ever offered in Qu'Appelle which we are selling at a SMALL MARGIN OF PROFIT FOR CASH.

The Leading Lines are

WHITE and BLACK IRON BEDSTEADS at FROM $6 to $18.
WOOD BEDS FROM $3.50 to $5. SPRING MATTRESSES FROM $3 to $5.
ALL WOOL MATTRESSES FROM $4.00 to $5.00
HARDWOOD and OAK DRESSERS FROM $8.00 to $20.00.
" " WASHSTANDS FROM $2.00 to $6.00.
" " SIDEBORDS FROM $8.00 to $30.00.
" " KITCHEN CUPBOARDS $15.00 EACH.
WARDROBES and BUREAUS at $10.00 EACH.
EIGHT FOOT EXTENSION TABLES FROM $9.00 to $25.00.
FALL LEAF KITCHEN TABLES FROM $3.00 to $4.50.
CENTRE and HALL TABLES FROM $2.00 to $4.00
KITCHEN, DINING ROOM, BED ROOM and DRAWING ROOM CHAIRS RANGING IN PRICES FROM 50 CENTS to $3.00.
COBBLER SEAT and OTHER ROCKING CHAIRS, $1.25 to $10.00.
HARDWOOD and OAK SECRETARIES FROM $6.50 to $15.00.

INSALVE TABLES, CHAIRS and COTS, MUSIC RACKS, BOOK SHELVES, WALL POCKETS, EASELS, PICTURES, CURTAIN POLES, ARCH POLES, WINDOW BLINDS, TOWEL ROLLERS, ETC., ETC.

A Fine Line of

Couches & Lounges $8.50 to $20

THESE LINES AND PRICES DEFY COMPETITION.

Bring along your Eastern Catalogue and Compare.

Church, School and Lodge Furniture a Specialty.

The Winter is Coming

And we have laid in a stock of Horse Blankets, Robes, Sleigh Bells of all kinds, and almost anything you can mention in the Harness line.

CUTTERS.

We can also show you something very nice in Cutters at prices that will surprise you.

LIDGATE & JAMES,

Dealers in Farm Implements, Harness, etc.

Fresh killed Meats

Of all kinds. Also full line of

CURED MEATS.

Best Poultry of all kinds wanted.

POTATOES FOR SALE.

D. BROWN, Qu'Appelle Station

Just Because

You've never worn our Tailor Made Clothing is no reason why you should not start now. You've as good a right as your neighbor to be properly clothed. You attain that degree when we make your clothing. You get a choice of new coats, a fit that is pleasing, a finish that is unsurpassed, and at a price to suit the times. We're ready to show their goods when you call. Why not see them to-day.

W. J. RICHARDSON,

MACALLEN BLOCK, QU'APPELLE STATION.

THE BROKEN BETROTHAL

By Laura Jean Libbey.

(Continued.)

"Who in the world are you? and what are you doing here?" gasped Theo, starting up all right, then fell back upon her pillow through sheer weakness, but still gazing at him with those great, wet, blood-tinged eyes.

"I am your doctor," he answered, with a quiet smile. "You have been very ill. I shall try to get you well very soon—providing you keep perfectly quiet."

"But," he repeated, "how did it happen?" Then like a flash of memory returned to him. He reached out his hand and clung to him with a pining, piteous cry of anguish. "Oh, I remember!" she cried, wildly, incoherently. "I struck the dark water, and it closed over my head. Did you save me?"

"No, but some one else did," he replied, thinking it best to hush this strange vagary.

"Why did they do it?" asked Theo.

"Oh, I wanted to die, then I would be out of their way."

"Not every one," said the young doctor.

How he longed to take one of those little white hands in his firm strong ones and tell her if she did the bright world would never be the same to him again; but he only said, very quietly:

"It is very wrong for you to wish for death; it comes to the most of us at length, but not soon."

"It couldn't come too soon for me," sobbed Theo. "No girl in the world was ever so wretchedly unhappy as I am."

"Why are you unhappy?" he asked, wistfully, more with a yearning to do something or say something to comfort her than from any curiosity.

But Theo did not answer him. She lay sobbing upon her pillow, in a way that made his heart ache for her.

"You must not do that," he cried, gently, but firmly. "You will have the brain fever if you do."

He drew her away from the pretty, tear-stained face, and at that moment Dorcas Lane entered with a spoon.

Theo looked up at the unfamiliar face with a little cry—this tall, unwieldy figure in a blue serge dress and gingham apron was not Mrs. Mills, the housekeeper, nor was she any one of the servants connected with Strathmore Hall.

"Where am I?" cried Theo, again, glancing at the woman's face and then at her surroundings.

At a glance Dorcas Lane saw that during her momentary absence Theo had regained consciousness, yet she answered, hastily:

"You are at home, to be sure, dearie. There was about to make a quick report, but the woman's hand came down quickly over her red mouth.

"Hush!" she exclaimed, sternly. "Don't speak a single word of your head's aching—don't speak, I say."

Theo was too weak to combat the pressure of that strong hand, and the doctor, who was adjusting his medicine-cup at the other end of the room, was not noticing what was transpiring.

A few moments later, standing on the threshold, ready to take his departure, Frank Hawthorne awaited him with growing impatience.

"I will come tomorrow, madame, and see your young daughter," he said, touching his hat, and there was a lingering hope in his eyes that she would correct the remark by saying:

"The young lady in parlor room is not my daughter."

But Dorcas Lane did nothing of the kind.

"There'll be no need for you to come here again, we'll pay you for what you have done; leave medicine and I'll tell you how to give it—we'll pay you for that, too—that's all we ask of you."

A strange flush mounted to the young doctor's brow, and his blue eyes clouded.

"You'll find there is still great need of a doctor's services," he said, and then, glancing in at the meagerly furnished room, a sudden thought occurred to him:

"If it is a question of money that prompts your decision, permit me to say I will come without extra charge until she has fully recovered."

"It appears to me you take a great interest in the girl," said Dorcas Lane, her eyes flashed fire that alone should have warned him.

"I do," admitted young Dr. Melville, blushing like a school-boy.

"Then you shan't come again!" cried Dorcas Lane, and the door was closed in his face with a loud bang.

"I will come again! I will go through fire and water to look upon that lovely, girlish face again!" the young doctor thought to himself. "She shall not prevent me from seeing her! I am determined."

CHAPTER X.

At Strathmore Hall strange events were transpiring. A sudden coldness had sprung up in Harry Strathmore's heart toward Violet Kensington. It had come about in this way:

Since the night of the major's death, when she so boldly declared her hatred for poor, helpless Theo, he had seen Violet's disposition in a new light, and the event which had happened a week subsequent turned the remainder of respect he had for her into the deepest loathing and disgust.

He had been walking in the garden late one moonlight night, when the sound of low, familiar voices fell upon his ear, and, glancing around, he saw, to his astonishment, Violet Kensington and Frank Hawthorne, his father's secretary, walking up the gravel walk together. In his right hand Frank carried a small ebony box.

Harry Strathmore was so much amazed to utter a word to acquaint them of his presence, even if the words that fell from Violet's lips had not held him spell-bound.

"You ask me if I am glad Theo's character is dead," she was saying, "and I answer yes. If she had been to come between me and my dearest plans, I would have been tempted to kill her with my own hands! There is nothing under heaven that makes a woman so desperate as to be thwarted in love. Do you think I could have borne taking Theo's character the mistress of Strathmore Hall, the most magnificent place in the county, counted, admired, sought after, while I was turned aside in the world with the paltry ten thousand dollars the major—the man old thought left me in his will? No, no, the girl should never have lived to triumph over me like that—never!"

From that time on Harry Strathmore never glanced at Violet's white hands without shuddering. Great Heaven! how near he had come to marrying this girl who could talk so calmly of taking even his own life if it stood between him and her triumph. He was appalled with horror at the thought. And in that bitter moment he remembered poor little Theo's pure, unselfish love for him—the love that chose death that it might bring him the happiness he sighed for.

He hid his face in his hands, and groined aloud. But it was too late now for vain regrets; his heart had gone out to Theo too late! The beautiful lips were dead that had uttered the words in all childish simplicity and girlish innocence, which he remembered when she came to promise to marry you that you loved me as dearly as I love you, Mr. Strathmore."

How the memory of those words amazed him. All the tender words of love and regret would never make that little heart throb with joy.

"No human voice could ever be heard by the still, cold ear of death."

"Poor little Theo," he murmured, as he strode down to the river-bank, and gazed thoughtfully and with deep sorrow on the moonlit water, beneath which he believed Theo lay in all her sweet, young beauty, my great yearning love for you has come too late."

And if he had but known that at that very moment, Theo, alive and scarcely five miles distant, was sending herself to sleep on her rude couch.

Many an hour Harry Strathmore spent on the shore of the river, slowly contemplating the dark water, and many who passed the handsome young fellow by as he stood there in his navy-blue suit, and straw hat pushed back from his fair hair thought of the loss.

"Down beside the flowing river, Where the dark-green willows weep, Where the tender branches quiver, There a gentle maiden sleeps. In the moon a lonely stranger Comes and lingers many hours, Reader, he's no heartless ranger, For his heart strewn her grave with flowers."

To Violet Kensington this strange revelation, of feeling on the part of her lover was maddening. In vain she tried to woo him back to his allegiance, but the spell was broken. He shrank from her, and avoided her whenever it was possible.

Yet Violet Kensington would not be discouraged.

The course of true love never does run smooth, murmured she, would say, in answer to her mother's earnest inquiries as to the existing state of affairs.

Even to herself she would not admit the alarming truth that Harry Strathmore had grown cold toward her.

One golden afternoon, when she came to a crisis, Harry Strathmore had suddenly given up his intention of leaving Strathmore Hall for the present and travelling abroad.

Violet Kensington heard the report with pale cheek and beating heart. She would go to Harry and ask him at once if the report were true.

She wrote him a little note, asking him to see her in the drawing room an hour after luncheon.

(Continued.)

Afraid of His Strength.

The course of true love never does run smooth, murmured she, would say, in answer to her mother's earnest inquiries as to the existing state of affairs.

Even to herself she would not admit the alarming truth that Harry Strathmore had grown cold toward her.

One golden afternoon, when she came to a crisis, Harry Strathmore had suddenly given up his intention of leaving Strathmore Hall for the present and travelling abroad.

Violet Kensington heard the report with pale cheek and beating heart. She would go to Harry and ask him at once if the report were true.

She wrote him a little note, asking him to see her in the drawing room an hour after luncheon.

"You ask me if I am glad Theo's character is dead," she was saying, "and I answer yes. If she had been to come between me and my dearest plans, I would have been tempted to kill her with my own hands! There is nothing under heaven that makes a woman so desperate as to be thwarted in love. Do you think I could have borne taking Theo's character the mistress of Strathmore Hall, the most magnificent place in the county, counted, admired, sought after, while I was turned aside in the world with the paltry ten thousand dollars the major—the man old thought left me in his will? No, no, the girl should never have lived to triumph over me like that—never!"

From that time on Harry Strathmore never glanced at Violet's white hands without shuddering. Great Heaven! how near he had come to marrying this girl who could talk so calmly of taking even his own life if it stood between him and her triumph. He was appalled with horror at the thought. And in that bitter moment he remembered poor little Theo's pure, unselfish love for him—the love that chose death that it might bring him the happiness he sighed for.

He hid his face in his hands, and groined aloud. But it was too late now for vain regrets; his heart had gone out to Theo too late! The beautiful lips were dead that had uttered the words in all childish simplicity and girlish innocence, which he remembered when she came to promise to marry you that you loved me as dearly as I love you, Mr. Strathmore."

How the memory of those words amazed him. All the tender words of love and regret would never make that little heart throb with joy.

"No human voice could ever be heard by the still, cold ear of death."

"Poor little Theo," he murmured, as he strode down to the river-bank, and gazed thoughtfully and with deep sorrow on the moonlit water, beneath which he believed Theo lay in all her sweet, young beauty, my great yearning love for you has come too late."

And if he had but known that at that very moment, Theo, alive and scarcely five miles distant, was sending herself to sleep on her rude couch.

Many an hour Harry Strathmore spent on the shore of the river, slowly contemplating the dark water, and many who passed the handsome young fellow by as he stood there in his navy-blue suit, and straw hat pushed back from his fair hair thought of the loss.

"Down beside the flowing river, Where the dark-green willows weep, Where the tender branches quiver, There a gentle maiden sleeps. In the moon a lonely stranger Comes and lingers many hours, Reader, he's no heartless ranger, For his heart strewn her grave with flowers."

To Violet Kensington this strange revelation, of feeling on the part of her lover was maddening. In vain she tried to woo him back to his allegiance, but the spell was broken. He shrank from her, and avoided her whenever it was possible.

Yet Violet Kensington would not be discouraged.

The course of true love never does run smooth, murmured she, would say, in answer to her mother's earnest inquiries as to the existing state of affairs.

Even to herself she would not admit the alarming truth that Harry Strathmore had grown cold toward her.

One golden afternoon, when she came to a crisis, Harry Strathmore had suddenly given up his intention of leaving Strathmore Hall for the present and travelling abroad.

Violet Kensington heard the report with pale cheek and beating heart. She would go to Harry and ask him at once if the report were true.

She wrote him a little note, asking him to see her in the drawing room an hour after luncheon.

"You ask me if I am glad Theo's character is dead," she was saying, "and I answer yes. If she had been to come between me and my dearest plans, I would have been tempted to kill her with my own hands! There is nothing under heaven that makes a woman so desperate as to be thwarted in love. Do you think I could have borne taking Theo's character the mistress of Strathmore Hall, the most magnificent place in the county, counted, admired, sought after, while I was turned aside in the world with the paltry ten thousand dollars the major—the man old thought left me in his will? No, no, the girl should never have lived to triumph over me like that—never!"

From that time on Harry Strathmore never glanced at Violet's white hands without shuddering. Great Heaven! how near he had come to marrying this girl who could talk so calmly of taking even his own life if it stood between him and her triumph. He was appalled with horror at the thought. And in that bitter moment he remembered poor little Theo's pure, unselfish love for him—the love that chose death that it might bring him the happiness he sighed for.

He hid his face in his hands, and groined aloud. But it was too late now for vain regrets; his heart had gone out to Theo too late! The beautiful lips were dead that had uttered the words in all childish simplicity and girlish innocence, which he remembered when she came to promise to marry you that you loved me as dearly as I love you, Mr. Strathmore."

How the memory of those words amazed him. All the tender words of love and regret would never make that little heart throb with joy.

"No human voice could ever be heard by the still, cold ear of death."

"Poor little Theo," he murmured, as he strode down to the river-bank, and gazed thoughtfully and with deep sorrow on the moonlit water, beneath which he believed Theo lay in all her sweet, young beauty, my great yearning love for you has come too late."

And if he had but known that at that very moment, Theo, alive and scarcely five miles distant, was sending herself to sleep on her rude couch.

Many an hour Harry Strathmore spent on the shore of the river, slowly contemplating the dark water, and many who passed the handsome young fellow by as he stood there in his navy-blue suit, and straw hat pushed back from his fair hair thought of the loss.

"Down beside the flowing river, Where the dark-green willows weep, Where the tender branches quiver, There a gentle maiden sleeps. In the moon a lonely stranger Comes and lingers many hours, Reader, he's no heartless ranger, For his heart strewn her grave with flowers."

To Violet Kensington this strange revelation, of feeling on the part of her lover was maddening. In vain she tried to woo him back to his allegiance, but the spell was broken. He shrank from her, and avoided her whenever it was possible.

Yet Violet Kensington would not be discouraged.

The course of true love never does run smooth, murmured she, would say, in answer to her mother's earnest inquiries as to the existing state of affairs.

Even to herself she would not admit the alarming truth that Harry Strathmore had grown cold toward her.

One golden afternoon, when she came to a crisis, Harry Strathmore had suddenly given up his intention of leaving Strathmore Hall for the present and travelling abroad.

Violet Kensington heard the report with pale cheek and beating heart. She would go to Harry and ask him at once if the report were true.

She wrote him a little note, asking him to see her in the drawing room an hour after luncheon.

"You ask me if I am glad Theo's character is dead," she was saying, "and I answer yes. If she had been to come between me and my dearest plans, I would have been tempted to kill her with my own hands! There is nothing under heaven that makes a woman so desperate as to be thwarted in love. Do you think I could have borne taking Theo's character the mistress of Strathmore Hall, the most magnificent place in the county, counted, admired, sought after, while I was turned aside in the world with the paltry ten thousand dollars the major—the man old thought left me in his will? No, no, the girl should never have lived to triumph over me like that—never!"

From that time on Harry Strathmore never glanced at Violet's white hands without shuddering. Great Heaven! how near he had come to marrying this girl who could talk so calmly of taking even his own life if it stood between him and her triumph. He was appalled with horror at the thought. And in that bitter moment he remembered poor little Theo's pure, unselfish love for him—the love that chose death that it might bring him the happiness he sighed for.

He hid his face in his hands, and groined aloud. But it was too late now for vain regrets; his heart had gone out to Theo too late! The beautiful lips were dead that had uttered the words in all childish simplicity and girlish innocence, which he remembered when she came to promise to marry you that you loved me as dearly as I love you, Mr. Strathmore."

How the memory of those words amazed him. All the tender words of love and regret would never make that little heart throb with joy.

"No human voice could ever be heard by the still, cold ear of death."

"Poor little Theo," he murmured, as he strode down to the river-bank, and gazed thoughtfully and with deep sorrow on the moonlit water, beneath which he believed Theo lay in all her sweet, young beauty, my great yearning love for you has come too late."

And if he had but known that at that very moment, Theo, alive and scarcely five miles distant, was sending herself to sleep on her rude couch.

Many an hour Harry Strathmore spent on the shore of the river, slowly contemplating the dark water, and many who passed the handsome young fellow by as he stood there in his navy-blue suit, and straw hat pushed back from his fair hair thought of the loss.

"Down beside the flowing river, Where the dark-green willows weep, Where the tender branches quiver, There a gentle maiden sleeps. In the moon a lonely stranger Comes and lingers many hours, Reader, he's no heartless ranger, For his heart strewn her grave with flowers."

To Violet Kensington this strange revelation, of feeling on the part of her lover was maddening. In vain she tried to woo him back to his allegiance, but the spell was broken. He shrank from her, and avoided her whenever it was possible.

Yet Violet Kensington would not be discouraged.

The course of true love never does run smooth, murmured she, would say, in answer to her mother's earnest inquiries as to the existing state of affairs.

Even to herself she would not admit the alarming truth that Harry Strathmore had grown cold toward her.

One golden afternoon, when she came to a crisis, Harry Strathmore had suddenly given up his intention of leaving Strathmore Hall for the present and travelling abroad.

Violet Kensington heard the report with pale cheek and beating heart. She would go to Harry and ask him at once if the report were true.

She wrote him a little note, asking him to see her in the drawing room an hour after luncheon.

"You ask me if I am glad Theo's character is dead," she was saying, "and I answer yes. If she had been to come between me and my dearest plans, I would have been tempted to kill her with my own hands! There is nothing under heaven that makes a woman so desperate as to be thwarted in love. Do you think I could have borne taking Theo's character the mistress of Strathmore Hall, the most magnificent place in the county, counted, admired, sought after, while I was turned aside in the world with the paltry ten thousand dollars the major—the man old thought left me in his will? No, no, the girl should never have lived to triumph over me like that—never!"

From that time on Harry Strathmore never glanced at Violet's white hands without shuddering. Great Heaven! how near he had come to marrying this girl who could talk so calmly of taking even his own life if it stood between him and her triumph. He was appalled with horror at the thought. And in that bitter moment he remembered poor little Theo's pure, unselfish love for him—the love that chose death that it might bring him the happiness he sighed for.

He hid his face in his hands, and groined aloud. But it was too late now for vain regrets; his heart had gone out to Theo too late! The beautiful lips were dead that had uttered the words in all childish simplicity and girlish innocence, which he remembered when she came to promise to marry you that you loved me as dearly as I love you, Mr. Strathmore."

How the memory of those words amazed him. All the tender words of love and regret would never make that little heart throb with joy.

"No human voice could ever be heard by the still, cold ear of death."

"Poor little Theo," he murmured, as he strode down to the river-bank, and gazed thoughtfully and with deep sorrow on the moonlit water, beneath which he believed Theo lay in all her sweet, young beauty, my great yearning love for you has come too late."

And if he had but known that at that very moment, Theo, alive and scarcely five miles distant, was sending herself to sleep on her rude couch.

Many an hour Harry Strathmore spent on the shore of the river, slowly contemplating the dark water, and many who passed the handsome young fellow by as he stood there in his navy-blue suit, and straw hat pushed back from his fair hair thought of the loss.

"Down beside the flowing river, Where the dark-green willows weep, Where the tender branches quiver, There a gentle maiden sleeps. In the moon a lonely stranger Comes and lingers many hours, Reader, he's no heartless ranger, For his heart strewn her grave with flowers."

To Violet Kensington this strange revelation, of feeling on the part of her lover was maddening. In vain she tried to woo him back to his allegiance, but the spell was broken. He shrank from her, and avoided her whenever it was possible.

Yet Violet Kensington would not be discouraged.

The course of true love never does run smooth, murmured she, would say, in answer to her mother's earnest inquiries as to the existing state of affairs.

Even to herself she would not admit the alarming truth that Harry Strathmore had grown cold toward her.

One golden afternoon, when she came to a crisis, Harry Strathmore had suddenly given up his intention of leaving Strathmore Hall for the present and travelling abroad.

Violet Kensington heard the report with pale cheek and beating heart. She would go to Harry and ask him at once if the report were true.

She wrote him a little note, asking him to see her in the drawing room an hour after luncheon.

"You ask me if I am glad Theo's character is dead," she was saying, "and I answer yes. If she had been to come between me and my dearest plans, I would have been tempted to kill her with my own hands! There is nothing under heaven that makes a woman so desperate as to be thwarted in love. Do you think I could have borne taking Theo's character the mistress of Strathmore Hall, the most magnificent place in the county, counted, admired, sought after, while I was turned aside in the world with the paltry ten thousand dollars the major—the man old thought left me in his will? No, no, the girl should never have lived to triumph over me like that—never!"

From that time on Harry Strathmore never glanced at Violet's white hands without shuddering. Great Heaven! how near he had come to marrying this girl who could talk so calmly of taking even his own life if it stood between him and her triumph. He was appalled with horror at the thought. And in that bitter moment he remembered poor little Theo's pure, unselfish love for him—the love that chose death that it might bring him the happiness he sighed for.

He hid his face in his hands, and groined aloud. But it was too late now for vain regrets; his heart had gone out to Theo too late! The beautiful lips were dead that had uttered the words in all childish simplicity and girlish innocence, which he remembered when she came to promise to marry you that you loved me as dearly as I love you, Mr. Strathmore."

How the memory of those words amazed him. All the tender words of love and regret would never make that little heart throb with joy.

"No human voice could ever be heard by the still, cold ear of death."

"Poor little Theo," he murmured, as he strode down to the river-bank, and gazed thoughtfully and with deep sorrow on the moonlit water, beneath which he believed Theo lay in all her sweet, young beauty, my great yearning love for you has come too late."

And if he had but known that at that very moment, Theo, alive and scarcely five miles distant, was sending herself to sleep on her rude couch.

Many an hour Harry Strathmore spent on the shore of the river, slowly contemplating the dark water, and many who passed the handsome young fellow by as he stood there in his navy-blue suit, and straw hat pushed back from his fair hair thought of the loss.

"Down beside the flowing river, Where the dark-green willows weep, Where the tender branches quiver, There a gentle maiden sleeps. In the moon a lonely stranger Comes and lingers many hours, Reader, he's no heartless ranger, For his heart strewn her grave with flowers."

To Violet Kensington this strange revelation, of feeling on the part of her lover was maddening. In vain she tried to woo him back to his allegiance, but the spell was broken. He shrank from her, and avoided her whenever it was possible.

Yet Violet Kensington would not be discouraged.

The course of true love never does run smooth, murmured she, would say, in answer to her mother's earnest inquiries as to the existing state of affairs.

Even to herself she would not admit the alarming truth that Harry Strathmore had grown cold toward her.

One golden afternoon, when she came to a crisis, Harry Strathmore had suddenly given up his intention of leaving Strathmore Hall for the present and travelling abroad.

Violet Kensington heard the report with pale cheek and beating heart. She would go to Harry and ask him at once if the report were true.

She wrote him a little note, asking him to see her in the drawing room an hour after luncheon.

"You ask me if I am glad Theo's character is dead," she was saying, "and I answer yes. If she had been to come between me and my dearest plans, I would have been tempted to kill her with my own hands! There is nothing under heaven that makes a woman so desperate as to be thwarted in love. Do you think I could have borne taking Theo's character the mistress of Strathmore Hall, the most magnificent place in the county, counted, admired, sought after, while I was turned aside in the world with the paltry ten thousand dollars the major—the man old thought left me in his will? No, no, the girl should never have lived to triumph over me like that—never!"

From that time on Harry Strathmore never glanced at Violet's white hands without shuddering. Great Heaven! how near he had come to marrying this girl who could talk so calmly of taking even his own life if it stood between him and her triumph. He was appalled with horror at the thought. And in that bitter moment he remembered poor little Theo's pure, unselfish love for him—the love that chose death that it might bring him the happiness he sighed for.

He hid his face in his hands, and groined aloud. But it was too late now for vain regrets; his heart had gone out to Theo too late! The beautiful lips were dead that had uttered the words in all childish simplicity and girlish innocence, which he remembered when she came to promise to marry you that you loved me as dearly as I love you, Mr. Strathmore."

How the memory of those words amazed him. All the tender words of love and regret would never make that little heart throb with joy.

"No human voice could ever be heard by the still, cold ear of death."

"Poor little Theo," he murmured, as he strode down to the river-bank, and gazed thoughtfully and with deep sorrow on the moonlit water, beneath which he believed Theo lay in all her sweet, young beauty, my great yearning love for you has come too late."

And if he had but known that at that very moment, Theo, alive and scarcely five miles distant, was sending herself to sleep on her rude couch.

Many an hour Harry Strathmore spent on the shore of the river, slowly contemplating the dark water, and many who passed the handsome young fellow by as he stood there in his navy-blue suit, and straw hat pushed back from his fair hair thought of the loss.

"Down beside the flowing river, Where the dark-green willows weep, Where the tender branches quiver, There a gentle maiden sleeps. In the moon a lonely stranger Comes and lingers many hours, Reader, he's no heartless ranger, For his heart strewn her grave with flowers."

To Violet Kensington this strange revelation, of feeling on the part of her lover was maddening. In vain she tried to woo him back to his allegiance, but the spell was broken. He shrank from her, and avoided her whenever it was possible.

Yet Violet Kensington would not be discouraged.

The course of true love never does run smooth, murmured she, would say, in answer to her mother's earnest inquiries as to the existing state of affairs.

Even to herself she would not admit the alarming truth that Harry Strathmore had grown cold toward her.

One golden afternoon, when she came to a crisis, Harry Strathmore had suddenly given up his intention of leaving Strathmore Hall for the present and travelling abroad.

Violet Kensington heard the report with pale cheek and beating heart. She would go to Harry and ask him at once if the report were true.

She wrote him a little note, asking him to see her in the drawing room an hour after luncheon.

"You ask me if I am glad Theo's character is dead," she was saying, "and I answer yes. If she had been to come between me and my dearest plans, I would have been tempted to kill her with my own hands! There is nothing under heaven that makes a woman so desperate as to be thwarted in love. Do you think I could have borne taking Theo's character the mistress of Strathmore Hall, the most magnificent place in the county, counted, admired, sought after, while I was turned aside in the world with the paltry ten thousand dollars the major—the man old thought left me in his will? No, no, the girl should never have lived to triumph over me like that—never!"

From that time on Harry Strathmore never glanced at Violet's white hands without shuddering. Great Heaven! how near he had come to marrying this girl who could talk so calmly of taking even his own life if it stood between him and her triumph. He was appalled with horror at the thought. And in that bitter moment he remembered poor little Theo's pure, unselfish love for him—the love that chose death that it might bring him the happiness he sighed for.

He hid his face in his hands, and groined aloud. But it was too late now for vain regrets; his heart had gone out to Theo too late! The beautiful lips were dead that had uttered the words in all childish simplicity and girlish innocence, which he remembered when she came to promise to marry you that you loved me as dearly as I love you, Mr. Strathmore."

How the memory of those words amazed him. All the tender words of love and regret would never make that little heart throb with joy.

"No human voice could ever be heard by the still, cold ear of death."

"Poor little Theo," he murmured, as he strode down to the river-bank, and gazed thoughtfully and with deep sorrow on the moonlit water, beneath which he believed Theo lay in all her sweet, young beauty, my great yearning love for you has come too late."

WILL COME HOME

FIVE HUNDRED OF THE FIRST CONTINGENT SO DECIDE.

They Will Leave for Home on October 1 - 875 on the Last Parade.

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—A cable was received at the militia department today from Lieut.-Col. Bigger, Cape Town, stating that 500 of the first Canadian contingent had elected to return to Canada within the year of their service, Oct. 1.—Col. Otter's last parade slate showed 875 still in South Africa.

Spitzkop, Sept. 20.—Gen. Viljoen, who succeeded Louis Botha in the supreme command of the Transvaal forces, is reported to be moving northward in the direction of Hector's Spruit with 3,000 men and 30 guns. He is known as "The Firebrand," and will endeavor to protect the war.

London, Sept. 20.—Lord Roberts telegraphs from Nelspruit, Vaal River Colony, under date of Tuesday, Sept. 18, that the town was occupied upon the previous day without opposition. He adds that he is in communication with General Buller and is able to send him supplies.

Lord Roberts further announces that General Buller reports that the bulk of his opponents now are mercenaries and Cape Colony rebels.

Lorenzo Marques, Sept. 19.—Monday.—Mr. Kruger, the former president of the South African Republic, will not sail for Europe on the German steamer Huzog, Monday Sept. 24, as he originally intended.

The Hague, Sept. 20.—The government of the Netherlands has been notified of Mr. Kruger's acceptance of its offer to place a war ship at his disposal to convey him from Lorenzo Marques to Holland.

LOSS OF LIFE IS 12,000.

Governor Sayers' Latest Estimate of the Texas Storm Fatalities.

Honolulu, Texas, Sept. 20.—Governor Sayers tonight wired the following to the Associated Press: "The loss of life occasioned by the storm in Galveston and elsewhere on the southern coast cannot be less than 12,000, while the loss of property will probably aggregate $20,000,000. Notwithstanding this severe affliction, I have every confidence that the stricken district will rapidly revive, and that Galveston will from her present desolation and sorrow arise with renewed strength and vigor."

NEWS FROM THE FAR EAST.

Changes in British Officials—Sir Ernest Succeeded Sir Claude MacDonald.

London, Sept. 21.—The only news of importance from China this morning is contained in a dispatch to the Times from Shanghai, dated yesterday, asserting that Sir Claude MacDonald will become British minister at Tokio and will be succeeded at Peking by Sir Ernest Mason Satow, the present British minister at the Japanese capital.

"This," says the Times correspondent, "is disappointing to the Britishers in the Far East, as they had hoped that a strong diplomatist would be sent to Peking." It is probable that Vice-Admiral Seymour will meet Sir Claude MacDonald at Tien Tsin.

Berlin, Sept. 20.—A special dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger, describing the capture and burning Sept. 11 of Liang Hsiang Si, southwest of Peking, by a German naval battalion, accompanied by 40 Bengal Lancers, says the foreign force faced 6,000 Boxers and a number of Chinese regulars, the enemy losing 350 killed.

Shanghai, Sept. 20.—Vice Admiral Seymour on board the British dispatch vessel Albatross, sailed today for the north.

London, Sept. 20.—The British foreign office informs the Associated Press that no reply has yet been made to the German note. Referring to the alleged telegram of Lord Salisbury to Li Hung Chang, outlined apparently by the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express, the foreign officials say the British premier has not sent any message to Li Hung Chang. It is pointed out at the foreign office here that the Washington press messages averring that the British and Japanese governments have already announced their support of the German policy in China are unfounded so far as Great Britain is concerned.

Mann, Germany, Sept. 20.—The socialist congress today, after a heated discussion, adopted resolutions protesting strongly against Germany's course in China. Herr Scheuenlank said the worst feature of the great political situation was the fact that Germany was now in the midst of absolutism, with a mock chancellor and a mock reichstag.

New York, Sept. 20.—The different funds collected in this city for the relief of Galveston sufferers amount to $220,222.

DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN.

Telegraphic Intelligence in Condensed Form.

Warren, Pa., Sept. 20.—Belle Archer, the actress, died at the Emergency hospital here tonight.

Chatham, Ont., Sept. 20.—William Houston, the ad who accidentally shot and killed another boy named Stephens, was yesterday acquitted of an evil intent.

Attens, Sept. 20.—The Egyptian mail steamer Charkiek is ashore upon the island of Andros, with a broken shaft. Some of her passengers have been drowned.

Toronto, Sept. 20.—Local commanding officers are considering the idea of having the sham fight on Thanksgiving Day give way this year to a marching and firing competition at the rifle ranges.

Boston, Sept. 20.—E. D. Bangs, the president of the Boston Stock Exchange, died at his home in Winchester today from the effects of a railway accident in which he was injured some time ago.

Kingsford, Ont., Sept. 20.—At a meeting of the city council last night Principal Grant said it was an insult to the city and to Queen's university to talk of the Queen's removing from the city. It was absolutely out of the question.

New York, Sept. 20.—Fire practically destroyed the summer resort of Spring Lake, N.J., early today. The loss is placed at $300,000. Driven by a high northwest wind the flames consumed three hotels, eleven cottages, a drug store, a grocery and a bicycle shop.

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—At a meeting of the cabinet this afternoon it was decided that Thanksgiving Day this year would be Thursday, Oct. 18. Heretofore it was held in November, but this year an earlier date has been selected in response to requests that this should be done.

Brampton, Sept. 20.—Robt. Smith, ex M. P., is dead, aged 84. The late Mr. Smith was twice elected by the Liberals of Peel and supported Mr. Mackenzie before and after he came into power. He defeated the late John Hilliard Cameron in the '70's.

Lebanon, Pa., Sept. 20.—At a meeting today of about three-fourths of the 1,200 iron workers employed by the American Iron Steel company, who struck on Aug. 1 against a reduction of wages from $4 to $3 a ton for puddlers, it was agreed to go back to work at the rate offered, $3.

Constitution, Sept. 20.—Lloyd Gieson, United States charge d'affaires, has made verbal representations to the Porte demanding the release of an Armenian who is said to be a naturalized citizen arrested upon the charge of belonging to the Armenian revolutionary committee.

Winnipeg, Sept. 20.—The prevalence of typhoid fever in the city at present is rather marked, about 15 fresh cases have been reported this week. The health officer states that the type is mild. The miserable weather, so unusual for a Manitoba fall, is supposed to be accountable for the prevalence of the fever.

Boston, Sept. 20.—The coal merchants of this city have decided that the price of store coal from today on shall be $7 a ton, an advance of $2 a ton within a week. The object of the dealers in raising the price to $7 is to stop the people, who seem to have been seized with panic on account of the great strike, from buying.

Montreal, Sept. 20.—J. C. Jones, divisional superintendent of the Grand Trunk railway, has been promoted to be superintendent of the eastern division, with headquarters here, succeeding Herbert, who receives another position on the road. F. N. Egan has been appointed superintendent at Toronto.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 20.—Forty-two fishing vessels are ashore in the Straits of Belle Isle, and as many as 20 will be totally lost. This is in addition to the disasters previously reported. Shipwrecked crews, aggregating 79 persons, have been brought south by the mail steamer and a special steamer will go for the rest. Reports of the loss of three more lives were received today.

Heno, Nevada, Sept. 20.—A Gazette special from Winnemucca, Nevada, says the First National bank of that city was robbed yesterday at noon by three men. Horses were in waiting outside the bank. When the robbers completed their work they mounted and started through the streets at top speed. Hundreds of citizens alarmed by the shooting, rushed from their homes and drew the fire of the robbers who escaped unhurt.

Hartford, Pa., Sept. 20.—The third day of the strike passed off as quietly as the two preceding days. Beyond the occasional stoning of a mine worker going to or from his work, there has been no disorder. It was estimated tonight that about 70 per cent. of the mine workers of this region were idle today, which is quite an increase over yesterday's figures. President Mitchell did not issue a formal statement tonight because of his absence from headquarters. He said, however, that from reports he had received he figured on more than 125,000 being idle in the anthracite district.

STORM IN TEXAS.

FOUR HUNDRED DEAD BODIES FOUND.

Over One Thousand Residents at a Texas Summer Resort Missing.

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 19.—News reached Dallas yesterday that High Island, a seaside resort, 30 miles north-east of Galveston, near the Gulf shore, and in the southwestern corner of Jefferson county, Texas, was entirely destroyed in the recent storm. The place had about 1,000 inhabitants, many of them visitors. Not a house is left standing and more than 400 dead bodies were found yesterday by relief and exploring parties.

Liverpool, Sept. 19.—The British steamer Gordon Castle and German steamer Storm in collision in Cardigan Bay Sunday night and both vessels were sunk. Twenty of the persons on board the Gordon Castle were lost.

HEAVY FIGHTING IN AFRICA

British Occupy Komatioport and Kaap Muiden—Destroying Railways.

London, Sept. 19.—The Daily Telegraph publishes the following from Lorenzo Marques, dated yesterday: "A pitched battle has been fought between Kaap Muiden and Hector's Spruit, resulting in heavy Boer losses. The Boers have removed and now threaten to destroy the cogwheels of locomotives used between Watermaal Boven and Watermaal Onder, without which the railway cannot be worked. They have blocked and damaged the railway for six miles on the Crocodile Port section, have destroyed the culverts and the Hector's Spruit bridge and looted and burned Komatioport. The British are now at Komatioport and heavy fighting is proceeding."

It is rumored Mr. Steyn has arrived here. Pretoria, Sept. 19.—Gen. Pole-Carew has occupied Kaap Muiden, about 20 miles east of Nelspruit, where he captured a number of locomotives and a considerable quantity of rolling stock. Lorenzo Marques, Sept. 19.—Five hundred Boer refugees arrived here this evening. Twenty are wounded.

New York, Sept. 19.—A large part of the Houtenberg commando has surrendered and there are reports that Gen. Botha has given himself up. The London correspondent of the Tribune cables relative to the South African war.

London, Sept. 19.—Lord Roberts reports from Machadodorp under date of Monday, Sept. 17, that a few minor skirmishes have taken place between the British troops and the Boers. He adds that Gen. French has captured fifty locomotives and other rolling stock, which he took when he occupied Barberton, Sept. 13, and that Gen. Stephenson was expected to occupy Nelspruit during the afternoon of Sept. 17.

Berlin, Sept. 19.—The foreign office has sent a circular note to all the powers announcing that the German government considers that an indispensable preliminary to the beginning of peace negotiations with China is the delivery up of those who were responsible for the outrages.

As might have been expected coincident with the arrival of Count Von Waldersee in China comes the most important declaration of policy yet issued by any of the allies. As the Daily News remarks, Germany's circular note has turned the tables on Russia, whose evacuation proposal had put Germany into an awkward corner. Now it is Russia's assents to the German note she will be unable to continue, says the Daily News. To pose as China's lenient and forgiving friend, while, if she disents, Russia will lay herself open to the charge of reducing the punitive expedition to a farce.

On the eve of Li Hung Chang's departure, says the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express yesterday, "he received a strongly worded cablegram from Lord Salisbury declaring that the British government would insist upon the return of Emperor Kwang Su to Peking as an absolutely essential condition of peace negotiations, without which the dissolution of the Chinese empire was inevitable. Lord Salisbury informed Earl Li that the allies desired to preserve China, but that nothing would divert them from their irrevocable intention of punishing those responsible for the outrages, whom they would if necessary pursue over all China."

Montreal, Sept. 19.—The Allan line steamer Assyrian from Philadelphia for Glasgow arrived at that port Sunday and landed her 250 head of cattle without loss. The Allan line steamer Sarnation from Montreal for Glasgow arrived safely Sunday and landed her shipment of 23 cattle and 21 horses without loss.

CONDENSED NEWS.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 22

The halfpenny scrip commission will sit at Winnipeg and Berlin. Chas. A. Stewart, a Winnipegger, was drowned at Port Huron, Mich.

Italy, Austria and France have agreed to Germany's Chinese proposal. The steamer Trees and 100 passengers have been quarantined at Victoria, B. C. The second engineer of the steamship Strathmore was drowned at Port William. At the final review of the French army manoeuvres, President Loubet inspected 37,000 men.

An investigation into the Vankleek Hill church tragedy reflects on the poor work of contractors. United States and British troops have captured Lai Tai Chu city, under Gen. Wicks.

Trinity river, Texas, has risen 20 feet, and hundreds of families were driven from their homes. A number of U. S. telephone and telegraph companies have consolidated into the National Co.

The British dog trials have ended. Lady Rachel, Avon, of Tennessee's dog, won the All Aged stake and cup. Delegates representing 2,000 Russian Moslems in the Bors district, have favored the France-Albert country for a location.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 21.

The plague is increasing in Glasgow. Mr. Justin McCarthy has decided to retire from public life. Constable Saunders, of the N. W. M. P., Regina, dropped dead.

Thirteen cars of Ontario ice were imported into the Territories recently. Former H. R. Fort, of Ottawa, was relieved of $400 in Ottawa. A number of a threshing gang was found hanged in a Clearwater livery stable.

The system of manual training will be introduced into Winnipeg schools next month. At the Davidson inquest in Selkirk, an expert said death was due to a defective transformer.

At the London field trials Clip Windem won first, and Lady Irish, second, in the Derby event.

The contest for building the first four miles of the small branch of the C. P. R. has been awarded.

A labor congress, at the meeting in Ottawa, has decided in favor of independent political action.

Hon. Mr. Bennett, of the Dominion cabinet, has announced that elections will be held within two months.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 20.

Boston dealers have advanced coat $2 a ton. Cecil Rhodes declares he is not in favor of Chinese labor.

At the London field trials Clip Windem won first, and Lady Irish, second, in the Derby event. The contest for building the first four miles of the small branch of the C. P. R. has been awarded.

The British Liberal journals have come out in favor of the annexation of the South African republics.

At the London field trials Clip Windem won first, and Lady Irish, second, in the Derby event. The contest for building the first four miles of the small branch of the C. P. R. has been awarded.

The telegraph operator who is responsible for the recent fatal railway accident on the Equinault & Nanaimo line.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 19.

Chicago has passed an anti-noise ordinance. The corner in Scotch pig iron in London has collapsed.

A cyclone did much damage to Berne Islands. Thos. Armstrong, a farmer, was killed in Hantsford by a street car.

The property loss in Galveston is $22,000,000, and the number of dead about 6,000.

Penalty postage within the empire will probably be introduced in Australia after Jan. 1.

The Presbyterian century fund has reached $200,000, and may yet total $1,000,000.

Berlin telegrams attacked a French Saharan post, inflicting great loss on the troops.

Twenty persons were drowned off the Gordon Castle which collided in Cardigan Bay with the British steamer Strathmore.

Special officers of the Lehigh Valley railway were engaged in a fierce fight with coal thieves off Staten Island.

The German Netherlands has given reasons why he won't bankrupt. His liabilities are estimated at $15,000.

Camp Bird mine, in Colorado, has been sold to an English American syndicate for $125,000.

The post week was a record breaker in shipwrecks in the Atlantic, about 1,000 men were killed in the wreck of the ship.

Wm. Henderson, C. F. R. brakeman, was seriously injured at Lehigh Valley, Pa. It is officially announced that the Duke and Duchess of York will visit Australia.

About 50 per cent. of the mine workers in Pennsylvania anthracite districts went on strike.

Camp Bird mine, in Colorado, has been sold to an English American syndicate for $125,000.

The post week was a record breaker in shipwrecks in the Atlantic, about 1,000 men were killed in the wreck of the ship.

Wm. Henderson, C. F. R. brakeman, was seriously injured at Lehigh Valley, Pa. It is officially announced that the Duke and Duchess of York will visit Australia.

About 50 per cent. of the mine workers in Pennsylvania anthracite districts went on strike.

Camp Bird mine, in Colorado, has been sold to an English American syndicate for $125,000.

The post week was a record breaker in shipwrecks in the Atlantic, about 1,000 men were killed in the wreck of the ship.

Wm. Henderson, C. F. R. brakeman, was seriously injured at Lehigh Valley, Pa. It is officially announced that the Duke and Duchess of York will visit Australia.

About 50 per cent. of the mine workers in Pennsylvania anthracite districts went on strike.

Camp Bird mine, in Colorado, has been sold to an English American syndicate for $125,000.

Alloway & Champion

BANKERS AND BROKERS. 362 MAIN ST., WINNIPEG

Stocks and bonds bought, sold and carried on margin. Listed mining stocks carried.

MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE.

Reported by Alloway & Champion, 362 Main Street, Winnipeg.

Stocks	Sellers	Buyers
McLaren's	XD	150
Payne	XD	110
Miscellaneous
Commodore's	XD	170
Montreal Tel.	XD	120
Rich & Co. Nav.	XD	110
City Loan B.	XD	250
Halifax Ry.	XD	90
Montreal Ry.	XD	100
Toronto Ry.	XD	130
Duluth Preferred	XD	10
Can. Pac. Ry. Montreal	XD	88
Can. Pac. Ry. London	XD	84

FOREIGN MONEY.

Quoted by Alloway & Champion, 362 Main Street, Winnipeg.

Reichsmarks	10.17 1/4
Austrian Gulden	10.34
Belgian Franc	10.34
French Franc	10.34
Italian Lira	10.34

WINNIPEG MARKETS.

Wheat—Manitoba No 1 hard, Fort William, 83c.

Flour—Ogavie's Hungarian patent, $2.20 per sack of 98 lbs.; Glenora, $2.05; Lake of the Woods Five Rows brand, $2.20; patent, $2.05.

Milled—Bran, $11 to $11.50; and shorts, $15.00.

Ground Feed—Oat chop, $26.00 ton; barley chop, $21.50; mixed barley and oats, $25.00; corn chop, $22; oilcake, $26.

Oatmeal—$1.75 per sack of 80 lbs. Oats—For good quality, 35c.

Barley—Nominal, at 45c. Corn—51c per bushel.

Hay—Fresh baled, $8.00 to $8.50; low hay on the street, $5.00 to $6.00.

Butter—Creamery—10c per pound at the factories. Dairy—12 to 14c per pound.

Cheese—Dairy, 9c to 10c; factory, 9c to 10c per pound.

Eggs—10c per dozen.

Vegetables—New potatoes, 35c per bushel; rhubarb, 20c per doz. bunches; lettuce, 10c per dozen; parsley, 20c; green onions, and radish, 10c per dozen; carrots, beets and turnips, 15c per dozen bunches; cabbage, 3c to 40c per dozen; ripe tomatoes, 5c per lb. Imported tomatoes, 45c per basket; celery, 20c per dozen; cucumbers, 10c to 25c per dozen.

Licensed Meats—Beef, 5c to 6c per pound; veal, 7 to 8c; mutton, 10c; lamb, 11c; hogs, 7 1/2 to 7c.

Poultry—Live chickens, 40c per pair; spring chickens, 30c to 35c per pair; dressed fowls, 12c; dressed chickens, 14c; ducks, 12c; turkeys, 15c per pound; live weight, 9c per pound.

Hides—No 1 inspected hides, 60c; No. 2, 50c; No. 3, 40c; shagreened sheepskins, 20 to 25c each; calfskins, 80c; deerskins, 25 to 35c each; horsehides, 75c to $1.25 each.

Wool—Unwashed fleeces, 8 to 8 1/2c per pound, washed, 12 1/2c.

Seneca root—Good clean, dry root is worth 25c per pound, delivered here, dark inferior grades less.

A Good Lincoln Story.

Mr. Lincoln said once that the best story he ever read in the papers of himself was this:

"Two Quakeresses were traveling on the railroad and were heard discussing the probable termination of the war."

"I think," said the first, "that Jefferson will succeed."

"Why does thee think so?" asked the other.

"Because Jefferson is a praying man."

"And so is Abraham a praying man," objected the second.

"Yes, but the Lord will think Abraham is joking," the first replied conclusively.

She Was the One.

Bridgeport, Wis., Sept. 19.—The ceremony—Maud, you and I are now one. It only remains to be decided which is the one, I tried to win you, didn't I?

Bride—Yes, Harold.

"And I won. That seems to settle it."

"Not quite, Harold. You tried to win me. You succeeded. Then you are the winner, are you not?"

"Yes, dear."

"And I am the won."

The Men of It.

"There are some girls I'd give the world to kiss and some I don't want to kiss at all."

Man—What kind is your love?

He—He asked I get a chance to—Do not kiss me.

Discretion.

A Boston interviewee says the Cuban schoolmaster are the fastest talkers in the world. Perhaps this is the reason. Wood promptly denied the remark, saying that their scholars are to be accused.

THE PROGRESS,
published
EVERY THURSDAY MORNING
IN
Qu'Appelle Station, Assa.,
N. W. T.

TERMS: $1 per annum in advance, $1.25 if paid within six months; $1.50 if allowed to run over six months.

No paper discontinued without explicit instructions to that effect along with full amount of arrears.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Commercial advertisements by the year $5 per inch. If for less than six months $6 per inch.

Legal, Medical or small Business Cards of one inch or under, $5 per year.

Advertisements one inch or under, 50c. for 1st insertion; 25c. for each subsequent insertion.

Transient advertisements, 12c. per line 1st insertion; 8c. per line each subsequent insertion.

Specials, 10c. per line 1st insertion; 7c. per line each subsequent insertion.

E. E. LAW,

EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1900.

"Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith let us dare to do our duty as we understand it."

INDEPENDENCE AND PARTISANSHIP.

The Regina Leader of last week attempts to criticize the following item which recently appeared in THE PROGRESS, and incidentally to show that it knows two or three things about Canadian government that it would be a disgrace for any school boy not to know:

We are inclined to ask where are we at, and what secret understanding have Messrs. Oliver, Scott and Douglas with the Government that they should receive their countenance while Mr. Richardson is read out of the party?

To say that "the Government does not select and nominate the candidates in the constituencies" is to beg the question. We never implied that they did. But we did imply and mean that these men, having been nominated, are receiving the countenance and support of the party leaders while Mr. Richardson, whose greatest fault is that of remaining true to the old Liberal policy, is not only not supported but is vigorously opposed and derided by the same leaders and their organs.

To create dissension and air its wonderful knowledge on constitutional points The Leader reads a great deal more into the item than is actually there and goes on to declare that the Government nominated Mr. Scott or either of the others mentioned. Mr. Sifton did not declare that he used his influence to help to obtain Mr. Winckler's nomination but no one accuses him of any member of the Government of nominating Mr. Winckler. We do not even pretend to say that the Government had any say in the nomination of Messrs. Scott, Douglas and Oliver, but it is well known that Mr. Sifton has been stamping the ridings of East and West Assiniboia for the respective Liberal nominees, while his organ, the Free Press, is indulging in article after article against Mr. Richardson.

Merely failing to receive the nomination does not read a man out of the party and I note but our brilliant friend The Leader could have conserved such a "startling document." But when party leaders lay down and party organs follow him to both and nail in accusations of being a traitor to his party and of having a secret understanding with the opposition what other can be taken but that they no longer consider him a member of their party. It is utter nonsense to compare Mr. Park's case with that of Mr. Richardson. In one point only do they coincide. Mr. Lake received the nomination over Mr. Park and Mr. Winckler over Mr. Richardson. There the comparison ends. Whether the latter "be made of some superior kind of clay" or not, he is, apparently, too independent and too true to the Liberal platform to retain the good will of the Government.

In spite of the denials of Liberal organs that are bound to support their party whether right or wrong, it is a fact that much dissatisfaction exists among Liberals over the failures of the Government to keep their promises. They certainly "have enough sins to answer for" but The Leader's denial of their guilt in this instance does not prove them guiltless.

According to party organs no view is sane that does not agree with their own and consequently an independent journal falls under the ban of both parties.

It is only fair to state that our objection to the different treatment meted out to the gentlemen mentioned was not in any way an objection to Mr. Scott or Mr. Oliver personally. Mr. Scott is making a good fight and deserves credit for his outspoken determination to uphold the interests of the west even should he have to oppose his own party leaders.

If he is elected and carries out his intentions, the chances are that he will be in a similar position to Mr. Richardson four or five years hence.

NOTES.

Too much capital is being made of the mistake of the chairman at the Sifton-Douglas meeting at Wapella. The Wapella Post, whose editor is a Conservative, says that after speaking twenty-eight minutes Sen. Perley was informed that his time was up. On learning the mistake both Mr. Douglas and the chairman urged him to proceed but he left the hall accompanied by his friends.

The exact date of the federal elections has not yet been announced but they are pretty certain to be held within the next two months. Both parties are working hard and everywhere in the east the leaders are greeted with large audiences.

The Boer war is virtually at an end and Great Britain has not been slow to take advantage of the fact. Already they have assumed a firmer tone in the Chinese question and we may therefore look for a less aggressive policy on the part of Russia.

A new railway has just been started at West Selkirk to run to Whitewood, says the Winnipeg Telegram. If this is correct it seems to us a waste of capital to parallel the already existing lines in Manitoba.

Farmers who have been neglecting stock raising lately will probably be anxious to return to that branch of farming after their experience of this year. It will pay them better to feed their tough and rejected grades of grain to stock than to sell it for a mere trifle. This is essentially a mixed farming district and in a season of this kind the man who has plenty of stock need not suffer even if his wheat does not grade No. 1 hard.

Mr. Lake at Grenfell.

Mr. Lake began by remarking that the last time he appeared before his audience it was as a candidate for the local Assembly, to which he had been elected. And now in response to the wishes of his friends he was a candidate for a wider sphere—the House of Commons. He did not covet the position, and for himself would have preferred remaining in the Assembly; but when it was necessary, he considered it his duty, as he considered the Conservative party would do the most for the country. But he would be no slavish supporter of any party and reserved to himself the right of a free hand to act according to his judgment, and it at any time the interest of the Northwest and the Conservative party came into conflict (which was very unlikely), he would stand by the Northwest. It had been reported that he was hostile to Sir Charles Tupper. That was not so, and he wished to assure them that so long as Sir Charles remained the leader of the Conservative party, he should have his support. He had been disappointed in Mr. Douglas who had been elected as an Independent, but had turned out a Liberal, and he opposed him as such.

He was opposed to the Liberal party, as they had failed to carry out their pledges to reduce the tariff, and to reduce the expenditure. —Grenfell Sen.

FARMERS' MARKETS.

(Continued from page 1.)

people obtain their milk supply? Then supposing we want a fowl occasionally where shall we go? Are we to walk two, three or even five miles into the country to buy, only to find that the farmers have none to sell? How often do they bring them to town or offer any for sale? He is very anxious that the merchants should advertise in your paper. Why do not the farmers use your columns when they have "potatoes, oats and other products" to sell? It's a poor rule that will not work both ways. We cannot run over the country looking for these articles.

I agree with Mr. Edmunds that "it is not to the interest of a district that the farmers should buy by mail at long distances from the place they live in," and yet I can cite cases where farmers in this very neighborhood have preferred to pay more for their goods and take their chances of the quality rather than purchase goods in this town. The great trouble, to my mind, is that many farmers are too suspicious of the honesty of our townspeople and would send east or go to Indian Head rather than leave their money here to help build up the town and increase the value of their own farms. Such a short-sighted policy is nothing less than suicidal. I know for a fact that most goods in this town are as cheap as in Indian Head or the departmental stores and in many cases cheaper than in the east, especially when the cost of postage, registration and carriage are added, and, above all, you can see what you are getting. I really do think the merchants sell at rack prices and I am positive the townspeople give fair prices for farm produce, when they can get it.

I would suggest a means of establishing a ready sale for farmers' produce.

At the next agricultural meeting let a committee be appointed to wait on the merchants here and arrange for a market day. It is probable that the merchants could be induced to offer special bargains on such a day, say once a week. This would be a drawing card and when the farmers come to buy let them bring in their products and offer them in open market. When this plan became known people would be on the lookout and ready to purchase what they required in the way of potatoes, oats, fowls, hay, etc.

Mr. Edmunds is correct in saying that we want more people and business men in Qu'Appelle. The difficulty is to get united and systematic action among townspeople and farmers to this end. As the whole municipality is interested in working for settlers I believe it would be a good scheme for the Council to prepare a list of the lands for sale, their quality and suitability and approximate price per acre. In addition let them give a few facts regarding trade and opportunities. Let all this be published in pamphlet form and sent east to boards of trade, newspapers and friends of settlers in the municipality.

Now, Mr. editor, there are many more points worthy of note, but I have already trespassed on your space so will close by signing myself.

TOWNSMAN.

Are You Engaged?

WHETHER engaged or married you should have your life insured. You can make out the policy for whom ever you please. If insured your business standing will be improved thereby. We can give you

CHEAP RATES in

*Endowment,
20 Payment Life, or our
Combined Term and Renewal Option Policy.*

To illustrate this combination feature, we will give the figures: A man of 30 takes one of these combination policies for $1,000. The first five years will be regular term rates of $14.90 per annum. At the end of the five-year period, if he has elected to take a whole life policy, the rate will be $23.15 per annum, which is only a slight increase over the rate usually charged at age 30, when the first policy began. By this means the policyholder is virtually able to keep his age level for five years, so far as insurance premiums are concerned. This is no small advantage when a man wants all the protection a given amount of money will possibly buy.

DO NOT DELAY,

But Call For Terms.

E. E. LAW AGENT,
QU'APPELLE STATION.

A Chance for Everybody.

We take this opportunity to thank our subscribers for their ready response to our request to secure us new subscribers and would urge them to continue the good work. All who see THE PROGRESS admit it was never better and the rapid increase of subscriptions proves its popularity. We have arranged for further

CLUBBING RATES

To suit your politics and your pockets.

TRIAL TRIPS

We shall send

The Family Herald
and Weekly Star,

Of Montreal, and

THE PROGRESS

To any address from now to end

of 1900 for the small sum of

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

The Weekly
Free Press

of Winnipeg and

THE PROGRESS

Will be sent to any address to end

of 1900 for

FORTY CENTS.

This includes a beautiful picture of The Surrender of Commandant Bato to the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

The Weekly Globe,

Toronto, and THE PROGRESS from now to end of 1901 together with a beautiful painting of THE BATTLE OF PAARDEBERG may be secured for $1.65. Two papers for 15 months at this low rate is a bonanza.

The Progress,

E. E. LAW, Proprietor.

For full information and full particulars apply to nearest G.P.O. agent or to

W.M. STUFF,	C.E. McPHERSON
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt.	Gen. Pass. Agt.
Winnipeg,	Winnipeg.

MINERS STRIKE.

SHERIFF'S PARTY FIRES ON A CROWD.

A Man and a Little Girl are Killed—Workers Now in an Ugly Mood.

Senandoah, Sept. 23.—A shot was fired from a crowd this afternoon as the sheriff of Schuylkill county and his deputies were escorting working miners to their homes. The sheriff then gave the order to fire and as a result one Hungarian man and a little girl were killed. Six others were wounded by bullets.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—Sheriff Toole, of Schuylkill county, today sent a telegram to Adjutant General Stewart, asking for troops as a result of a clash between marching strikers and coal and iron police at Senandoah this afternoon. The sheriff's message was delivered to the adjutant general a few minutes after his arrival in this city from Harrisburg. General Stewart at once communicated with Sheriff Toole by telephone. After a brief conversation the adjutant general returned to Harrisburg on the train, leaving here at 8.50 o'clock tonight.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—Archbishop Ryan today confirmed the report that President R. M. Olyphant, of the Delaware and Hudson company, and President W. H. Truesdale, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, had consented to confer with him on the mine workers' strike.

New York, Sept. 22.—President Olyphant, of the Delaware and Hudson company, and President Truesdale, of the Lackawanna, said today that they must decide to meet Archbishop Ryan as a spokesman for the strikers.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 22.—President Nicholls, of district No. 1, informed the strike headquarters this afternoon that the West End Coal company's mine at Mocanqua, which had resisted the efforts of the strikers to close it, was tied up at noon, making complete the suspension in the Wyoming and the Lackawanna valleys.

THE BOER WAR.

A British General Cuts His Way Through Jungles and Makes a Find.

London Sept. 23.—The war office gave out the following dispatch from Lord Roberts this evening:

"Waterval Boven (Thursday) Sept. 22.—Fole-Carver reached Koonpund yesterday. Practically there was no road and a way had to be cut through jungles intersected by ravines. He captured 38 cars of flour one car of coffee and 19 damaged engines at Waterval-onder.

Yesterday evening Lieut. U. V. Clark was shot but not fatally by sentry while making the rounds. He either did not hear the sentry's challenge or the sentry did not hear his reply.

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—A cable was received here today from Col. Otter stating that 14 officers including himself and about 300 non-commissioned officers and men have elected to remain in service in South Africa.

London Sept. 22.—Further reports from Lord Roberts say the Boers who remain in the field include irreconcilables but that the majority are fighting under compulsion.

General Delany, it is added holds three hundred burghers as prisoners in his laager.

NEWS FROM CHINA.

Pekin Sept. 18 via Taku Sept. 21.—Gen. James H. Wilson, the American commander took Pat Tai Chu this morning. No details of the affair have been learned but the British officials have received a dispatch announcing that "the temples were taken according to arrangement." It is expected that Gen. Wilson will move on San Hai Tien (San Kiatien?) and destroy the Chinese arsenal at that place. The Germans moved westward today and it is doubtful if they had operated in the taking of Pat Tai Chu.

Washington, Sept. 22.—As announced by the Associated Press in a dispatch from Peking, under date of Sunday, Sept. 16, via Taku, Thursday, Sept. 20, Gen. Wilson, with 500 Americans and 600 British troops, and six guns, marched westward that day, and the Germans were to move on the following day to co-operate in the taking of Pat Tai Chu, where the enemy was supposed to be in large force. The American commander, it was added, would attack from the west, and the Germans from the east. The dispatch also said that Gen. Wilson would then take the San Hai Tien arsenal.

Hong Kong, Sept. 22.—The French warship Albatross, which has been investigating the killing of Christians in the Samoi district, near Canton, reports that the crews of eight private junks, by the connivance of influential persons ashore, have sought to destroy all the Christians on the Canton delta.

Shanghai, Sept. 22.—Count Von Waldersee will review 6,000 men of the land force tomorrow.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Telegrams and Cables Condensed.

Glasgow, Sept. 22.—There was another death from bubonic plague and an additional case of the disease reported here today.

Berlin, Sept. 22.—The German foreign office has received replies from Italy, Austria and France, agreeing without reserve to Germany's Cuius proposal.

Melbourne, Victoria, Sept. 22.—The Kuruta and Tubuai Islands were formally annexed to France by the governor of Tahiti, Aug. 21, at the request of the natives.

Boston, Sept. 22.—The Journal announces that ex-Governor Roger Wilcott will not accept the post of ambassador to Italy. He so notified the state department.

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—J. H. Bertram, son of the late Mr. Bertram, M. P., Centre Toronto, has been appointed appraiser of the harbor branch of the customs department.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—The coroner's jury last night found that Morris Goldstein, the Queen street pawnbroker, who, on Aug. 10, had died from carbolic poisoning administered by unknown parties.

Port Hope Sept. 22.—Wm. Newman, a pastor who was accustomed to using chlorine and laudanum, took an overdose yesterday afternoon, which resulted in his death at an early hour this morning.

London, Sept. 22.—At the semi-annual meeting of the Bank of England today, Governor Samuel Stewart Gladstone announced the six months' profits as 727,860 pounds. The usual 6 per cent dividend was declared.

Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 22.—Trinity river rose twenty feet during the night on account of twelve hours rain. Three persons are reported drowned. Hundreds of families were driven from their houses in the lower portion of the city.

Fort William, Sept. 22.—Alexander Marr, second engineer of the steam ship Strathcona, was drowned accidentally by falling into the water from where he had been standing on the dock this evening. He was a native of Dundee, Scotland.

New York, Sept. 22.—The action for absolute divorce began in the supreme court some days ago by Norman Selby, better known as "Kid" McCoy, prize fighter, was dismissed by agreement when the case was called today. Mrs. McCoy's counter suit was withdrawn at the same time.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 22.—The body of Charles A. Stewart, who was drowned off a steamer at Windsor a few days ago was picked up in the river yesterday. Stewart lived in Winnipeg. He was aged 24 and unmarried. The body will be buried at Sarnia.

Berlin, Sept. 22.—A dispatch received here from Shanghai, under date of today, (September 21) says that the German warship Hertha, with Count Von Weddersee, the commander-in-chief of the allied forces in China, on board, has arrived at Wou Sang. She will go to Kiao Chou tomorrow.

Braundon, Sept. 22.—The second day of the Braundon Kennel club's field trials proved most successful in every respect. The weather was perfect, the dogs competing were amongst the best in America, the birds were plentiful and the competition was brought to a satisfactory conclusion.

London, Sept. 22.—An alarming epidemic of enteric fever has broken out in South London and there are already fifty cases on record. It is stated the disease was brought to England by soldiers invalided home from South Africa. Smaller outbreaks of enteric fever are reported in the provinces.

Calcutta, Sept. 22.—The extraordinary rainfall in northern India has not ceased for four days. Half the city of Calcutta is submerged. Many houses have collapsed. Very little loss of life, although as the rain continues very heavy there is considerable apprehension.

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—The following will appear in today's Official Gazette: James Emile Prendergast, a judge of the county courts in Manitoba, has been appointed a commissioner to inquire into and report upon certain irregularities in connection with the public auction sales of school lands in Manitoba.

Toronto, Sept. 22.—Premier Macdougall, of Quebec, according to private advices received tonight from Quebec, is dying and is not expected to live through the night. The members of his family and Senator Dandurand have been summoned to his bedside and left for the ancient capital tonight.

Winnipeg, Sept. 22.—The steel is now laid on the Canadian Northern railway to a point within three miles of the northern boundary of the province. The work of grading has been completed past Red Deer lake so far as Carnot river. Immense quantities of building material are being rushed to the end of the track and construction will be pushed rapidly forward till winter sets in. There will also be a large amount of winter work carried on such as taking out ties for next year's operations.

FORTS ATTACKED

ALLIES BOMBARD THE FORTS AT DAYBREAK.

Heavy Cannonading Going On—The Empress Dowager Wants to Return.

Taku, Sept. 21.—The allies attacked the Pei Tang forts at daybreak. Heavy cannonading is going on.

Pekin, Sept. 15 via Shanghai, Sept. 21.—The indications are that 10,000 of the allies will winter at Peking. The German force will be the largest. Some of the troops will probably be distributed in the surrounding cities to relieve the strain. The Japanese will withdraw the most of their troops to Nagasaki. The Russians will remain at least two thousand here.

A joint expedition to Peking has been planned by the British, the German and the French forces. The dowager empress has expressed her willingness to return to Peking if guaranteed protection. The generals in command and the ministers of the powers are unwilling to assume such a responsibility. A number of small bands of Boxers have been reported in the neighborhood recently.

London, Sept. 21.—A dispatch from the American hospital ship Maine, dated Wei Hai Wei, announces the arrival there of two additional surgeons from America, thus completing the medical staff. The Maine will remain at Wei Hai Wei. Sick and wounded men are already arriving on board of her.

Washington, Sept. 21.—The war department here received this dispatch, Taku, no date.—Adjutant General, Washington:

"Pekin, Sept. 19.—In further reply to your number 18, the following is accepted here as reliable:

"Two daughters of Atwater and 28 others were murdered at Tayan, July 9. Clapp and his wife and four others were murdered at Taku, July 31. The same message reports six persons, Dion and his wife, Occure and his wife, a single gentleman and a single lady as having escaped into the mountains from a mission thirty miles to the north of Taku.

London, Sept. 21.—"Authentic accounts have been received here" says the Moscow correspondent of the Standard, of a horrible massacre at Biagovestchensk, which was undoubtedly carried out under direct orders from the Russian authorities, which then let loose the slaughter through Amur. The entire Chinese population of 5,000 souls was escorted out of town to a spot five miles up the Amur and then being led in batches of a few hundred to the river bank were ordered to cross over to the Chinese side, no boats being provided. The river is a mile wide. The Russian volunteers who lined the bank, clubbed or shot any who attempted to land. The river bank for miles is strewn with corpses."

FIGHTING ON THE FRONTIER

Portuguese Artillerymen Leave For the Scene of Action.

London, Sept. 21.—A Lorenzo Marques dispatch of Wednesday's date says fighting is reported on the frontier. Two hundred and fifty Portuguese artillerymen have started in that direction and other troops will follow.

The Hague, Sept. 21.—The government of the Netherlands has notified England that Holland will demand indemnity for Dutchmen injured by the war in the Transvaal and who were expelled therefrom. Holland has also notified England of its offer to convey Kruger to Europe on a Dutch warship. In reply England said that she was pleased with the idea and would not interfere.

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—Oscar Pelletier will be in charge of the 500 Canadians returning from South Africa.

Nelspruit, Sept. 20.—Of the 3,900 Boers who retreated from Komati Port before the British advance from Mac-haledrop, 700 have entered Portuguese territory, and the others have deserted in various directions.

CHAMBERLAIN'S MANIFESTO.

London, Sept. 21.—The manifesto of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies and member of parliament for West Birmingham, was issued to his constituents tonight. He said: "Our opponents assert that we deliberately provoked a war for which we made no preparation. The first statement is untrue, and the second is greatly exaggerated. The war was forced on us by a sudden invasion while the negotiations, conducted with the greatest moderation on our part were proceeding."

Mr. Chamberlain then reviews the causes of the war briefly, and the "immense and successful exertions of the war office," at considerable length. In conclusion he declares that to return the Unionists to power would mean to conserve the fruits of victory, which otherwise would be thrown away.

FROM BOTH HEMISPHERES.

Important News Condensed Into Brief Paragraphs.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Colin Rankin, formerly Hudson's Bay factor at Matana, was relieved of $400 at the Canada Central fair.

London, Sept. 21.—The Galveston fund being raised by London bankers with American connections has already reached $3,500. The stock exchange is making up a liberal contribution.

Dux, Bohemia, Sept. 21.—An explosion occurred in the Frisch Gluck mine yesterday. Thirty-five persons were killed and 15 injured. Five persons are missing.

Regina, Sept. 21.—Constable Saunders, N. W. M. P., dropped dead last night from heart disease. It will be remembered that a few months ago three of his children were burned to death by the total destruction of his house by fire.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—R. C. Clute, Q. C., of Toronto; Daniel J. Munro, of New Westminster, B. C.; and Ralph Smith, M. P. P., for Nanaimo, have been appointed a commission to investigate and report upon the Chinese question.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—At the Trades and Labor congress yesterday a resolution was passed favoring independent political action in elections. All the western delegates voted for it, and the great majority of the Ontario men, while Quebec was pretty solid against.

London, Sept. 21.—A dispatch from Athens to Lloyd's giving further details of the disaster to the mail steamer Charkeib, now ashore on the island of Andros, one of the Cyclades, says that forty of the passengers and crew were drowned.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—Mr. T. G. Shaughnessy left this morning, by the Imperial Limited, upon his annual tour of inspection to the coast. The president is accompanied by Messrs. R. B. Angus, E. B. Osler and Mr. Mathews, of the Canadian Pacific railway directorate.

London, Sept. 21.—It was explained yesterday at the British foreign office that "it was found inexpedient for the powers to accept the Russian withdrawal proposal," as they had reliable information that "the Boxers were ready to re-occupy Peking as soon as the allies retired."

London, Sept. 21.—Justin McCarthy, the novelist and historian, who has been a member of parliament for North Longford since 1892 and who was formerly leader of the Irish parliamentary party, announces his retirement from parliamentary life on account of failing health.

New York, Sept. 21.—Joe McGuigan, 46 years old, was locked up today charged with the murder of his wife Sarah, 42 years old, who was found dead on the sidewalk underneath her window at two o'clock yesterday morning. On a statement made by the youngest daughter, 11 years old, that her father threw her mother out of the window during a quarrel, McGuigan was arrested.

Port Arthur, Sept. 21.—Mr. M. Finger, of Arpin, Scott & Finger, lumbermen, of Grand Rapids, Mich., is here buying supplies to operate on No. 1 limit near Pigeon river. They propose cutting 15,000,000 feet per year for ten years. The mill is to be located either at Port Arthur or Fort William. As usual there is big rivalry between the towns for it.

Rome, Sept. 21.—On September 20, 1870, the Italian army entered Rome, and the city is celebrating the twentieth anniversary of the events as a public holiday. The national colors are visible everywhere. The grave of the late King Humbert was covered with floral wreaths, and grief for his assassination is mingled with the rejoicings over Italian unity.

Winnipeg, Sept. 21.—It is understood that the changes in the new P. E. time service to go into effect on Oct. 15 will provide a service nearly similar to the one at present on the M. & N. W. section and on the old Great West Central branch to Minnedosa. If such is the case it will be greatly appreciated by the residents in these sections as last year only a tri weekly was given them.

Winnipeg, Sept. 21.—Mr. Geo. E. Graham, of the C. P. R., has returned from British Columbia, where he visited the coal stations at Fernie and Livingston. He stated that the latter place promises great things in coal. Already seven seams have been opened, and the deposits have been found to be of a fine coking quality, the same grade as that of Fernie. An American company is operating the mines.

Winnipeg, Sept. 21.—The ice crop in the west has proved inadequate, and to supply the needs here a call has to be made on the ice fields of the sister provinces. This dispels the apprehensions of the appellation generally applied to Manitoba as the "land of ice and snow," and shows that Ontario after all is "not so warm." This week thirteen cars of ice were imported by the Canadian Pacific to be used at Medicine Hat, Broadview and other points along the route, for use by the company, as the stock in Winnipeg was insufficient to supply the needs. The ice was cut at Rat Portage.

THE ROUND WORLD.

Its News in Condensed Paragraphs.

Fort William, Sept. 19.—The tax rate for 1900 is 25 mills, being one mill lower than last year.

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Co. announced today that on and after this date all grades of coal will be advanced 25 cents a ton.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 19.—The city council at its meeting last night passed a resolution inviting the Trades and Labor congress to meet in Vancouver next year.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 19.—The Old Time Telegraphers' association opened its annual meeting in this city last night. Montreal was chosen for the next place of meeting.

Halifax, Sept. 19.—A great wind storm swept over this city today and all along the coast tremendous seas were running, but so far no damage to any great extent has been reported.

Kingsport, Sept. 19.—The city council has decided to submit a by-law to the ratepayers on Oct. 16, granting $50,000 towards the erection of a new arts and science building for Queen's university.

Fort William, Sept. 19.—H. Finger, of Simes, Wis., representing a large lumber firm is here arranging to cut off their limits near Pigeon river. He will likely locate here, building a mill. The limit is a large one and will take ten years to cut.

Port Meyer, Fla., Sept. 18.—A runner from Seminole camp at Turtle Mountain reports that in a big sun dance last week four Seminole braves had a bloody fight, all being aspirants for the chief's daughter. All four were killed. The girl then drowned herself from grief for one of the dead braves.

London, Sept. 19.—Another colony will follow the lead of Canada and provide its people with the penny postage within the empire. It is announced that Australia will probably take this step on January 1 next, when the federation of the colonies of the island continent is also inaugurated.

London, Sept. 19.—There was an unusual gathering of uniformed police was dotted in various directions at King's Cross railroad station this morning awaiting the arrival of Lord Salisbury from his country seat. It is said that since the premier's return to Hatfield he has received an anonymous letter of a character which has led to increased police vigilance.

St. Johns, Nfld., Sept. 19.—Reports of marine disasters during last week's gale continue to pour in from remote localities. To-day's advices show seventeen more vessels ashore and thirteen lives lost. Considerable damage was done to property along the seaboard. Hope for the safety of four other vessels with crews aggregating twenty five is almost abandoned.

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—The leader of the strike says at the end of the second day that 118,000 of the 141,000 mine workers in the anthracite coal fields are idle. No representative of the mine operators makes a statement for their side of the matter, but individual mine owners dispute the strikers' figures, saying there are more men at work than the union leaders will admit.

Lowell, Mass., Sept. 19.—About 400 print workers were ordered out from the Merrimack mills yesterday to enforce a demand for time and a quarter for overtime. As soon as the strikers had disappeared, a gang of Greeks began to file in to take their places and 200 new hands were distributed in the various departments. Later in the day a riot occurred and an angry mob of 2,000 people finally put the Greeks to flight.

Vancouver, Sept. 19.—H. M. S. Empress of India arrived in port this afternoon twelve hours ahead of time. Fog and bad weather were prevalent on the trip. She brings Lord Droughhead on a trip around the world; Lieut. Holborn, U. S. N., the hero of the Merrimack, and Paymaster Hargreaves, R. N., who took part on the gunboat Algerine in the taking of Taku forts. He was shot in the back and is invalided home.

Denver, Sept. 19.—It was announced today that Thomas E. Walsh would receive $13,000,000 for his Camp Bird mine at Ouray, Colo., from a syndicate of English and American investors headed by Alfred Beit, the South African "diamond king," and J. P. Morgan. It is said a draft covering the first payment is now on deposit at the First National bank. John Hays Hammond, the mining engineer, arrived at Ouray yesterday to make a final examination of the mine on behalf of the syndicate.

Winnipeg, Sept. 19.—The following intelligence has been received by relatives of Mr. Elford, from Galveston, Texas: "John Elford, wife and grandson, Dwight Elford of North Dakota, day a riot occurred and an angry mob of 2,000 people finally put the Greeks to flight. Out, formerly of Durham county. Out, were drowned in the storm at Galveston, Sept. 8. Their son, Milton Elford, escaped and telegraphed the sad news north. Mr. and Mrs. Elford were on a pleasure trip through the southern states. They leave three sons and one daughter in North Dakota and one son in the south."

New Advertisements and Changes.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Box 643, Winnipeg—Wanted.
J. C. Starr—Tax Sale Notice.
CHANGES.

Qu'Appelle Furniture Co.—Some Prices.
Lidgate & James—Robes, Cutters, etc.
C. P. R.—Choice of Routes.

LOCAL NEWS

More Cattle.

About 400 more head of cattle were shipped at this point on Wednesday. This brings the total shipments for this season up to 1500.

Snow.

The first snow of the season fell on Tuesday. The storm was general over the Territories and will probably give place to settled weather.

Leave Your Names.

All interested in the formation of a Rifle Association in Qu'Appelle are requested to leave their names at this office with as little delay as possible.

Qu'Appelle Furniture Store.

The above store is defying competition and requests those in need of furniture to bring along their eastern catalogues and compare prices. See enlarged advt.

Lord Minto at Regina.

The vice-regal party were royally and loyally welcomed at Regina on Sunday and Monday. They will be here in a few days. What preparations are our townsmen making?

To Correspondents.

We would like to hear from our McLean, Sunny South, Touchwood, Poplar Plains and other correspondents who have been silent lately. Send us in the news as often as possible. If out of stationery drop us a line and we will supply you.

Good News.

Word has been received from Mrs. M. G. McEwen, who is in Winnipeg consulting a specialist regarding little Geraldine's eye, to the effect that the doctor expects to save the sight of the injured organ. This will be good news to their many friends.

A Warning.

John Anderson at Canmore was fined $1 for acting as fireboss without a certificate. The McNeill Co. having made arrangements to secure a competent man. The McNeill Co. was also fined $5 for employing a non-certified engineer, a similar arrangement having been made.

Consider This.

Rev. T. Do Witt Talmage sagely observes that "a newspaper whose columns overflow with advertisements of business men has more influence in attracting attention than any other agency that can be employed. People go where there is business. Capital and labor will locate where there is an enterprising community. No power on earth is so strong to build up a town as a newspaper well patronized, and its power should be appreciated."

The Wheat Crop.

Reports from Manitoba and many parts of the Territories show that much damage is being done by the continued wet weather. Some of the grain is sprouting while much of it is wet and tough. Great difficulty is being experienced in grading. Those who have No. 1 hard may look for excellent prices. Care should be taken to dry as much wheat as possible and deliver it in good condition.

Qu'Appelle Creamery.

Several weeks ago we announced that up to that time the make of butter had exceeded the total output of last year. In 1899 the total number of pounds made was 16,561 pounds. Up to Sept. 22 last year the output was 15,523 lbs. This year it reaches the respectable figure of 20,504 pounds, an excess over last year's total product of 3,943 pounds or nearly 4,000 lbs. The creamery will probably be running for six weeks yet and an effort is being made to run up the product to 30,000 pounds this season. Farmers who have milk cows and are not taking their cream to the factory are urged to do so. It will pay them.

Dentistry.—Dr. Washington, Dental Surgeon, will be at the Leland Hotel from Wednesday to Friday, Oct. 3rd to 5th. Teeth extracted without pain. Also best artificial teeth inserted. Satisfaction guaranteed. Call early.

The creamery patrons are urged to do their very best to supply all the cream they can, and also as long as they possibly can. We want to reach the thirty thousand pound mark this season. It is not too late for those farmers to begin who have not yet supported the creamery. "Come over and help us." We are sure you will receive every courtesy from those in charge of the creamery.—A Patron.

Attempted Robbery.

A broken window in Beauchamp & Co's store furnished a means of ingress to a thief on Tuesday night. He was probably interrupted in his proceedings as only some bacon and tobacco are missed. He escaped by the back door. We referred some time ago to the petty thieving going on lately in town and would warn citizens against these light-fingered gentry. It is false kindness to let them off if caught.

Shooting Accident At Lacombe.

James Skinner, of the Lacombe Advertiser, met with an accident recently by which he was shot through the foot. Amputation of the foot was necessary. Mr. Skinner is a young married man and was a member of the Press Excursion party in June.

PERSONALS.

Rev. Father Hugonard was in town on Thursday last on his way to Regina.

Miss Jewell left on Sunday for several months' visit in British Columbia.

We noticed Messrs. J. A. McDonald and T. Baker, of the Fort, in town on Wednesday.

Miss Gillespie, who has been visiting her sister Mrs. W. G. Vickers for some weeks, returned to Chicago on Tuesday.

Mr. Jas. A. Smart, deputy minister of the interior is in the west investigating the townsite question of Moosejaw, Regina, Qu'Appelle and Virden.

Mr. J. R. North, of Fort Qu'Appelle, was in town on Wednesday with a shipment of cattle from his ranch. He reports a brisk trade doing in the valley town.

Mr. J. A. Mitchell, Indian agent at Muscowpetung's reserve, was a guest at the Leland Tuesday. We are sorry to hear that Mr. Mitchell has not been enjoying the best of health lately.

Mrs. John Scott and her son Milton, who reside near here, were brought into town last week for convenience in medical treatment, both being ill with typhoid fever. It is supposed they caught the disease at Weyburn where an older son resides.

The many friends of Mr. G. S. Davidson, of Indian Head, will be pleased to learn that he has recovered from his attack of typhoid fever and returned home this week from the Winnipeg hospital.

E. W. Warner, of Winnipeg, well known here as a former C.P.R. agent spent a few days in town last week. In conversation with a Progress representative Mr. Warner took occasion to remark that the paper had vastly improved under the present management. In fact, it was never better during its fifteen years' existence.

Hon. Senator Perley and Mr. R. S. Lake Conservative nominee for East Assiniboia came in on the local Thursday evening last and left Friday for the north where they are now holding a series of meetings. They were met by a number of prominent Conservatives of this town and escorted to the Leland. Mr. Lake speaks very hopefully of the results of the campaign as the Conservatives are thoroughly united and organized throughout the riding.

Qu'Appelle Observatory

		Maximum.	Minimum.
W. 1	19	62	32
Thurs.	20	69	41
Fri.	21	70	42
Sat.	22	65	39
Sun.	23	66	39
Mon.	24	51	40
Tues.	25	51	39

For Fall 1900.

We are showing a larger range in all departments than any former season. Come and see our

New GOODS!

NEW DRESS GOODS

- " FLANELLETES
- " SKIRTS in varieties
- " LADIES JACKETS

FOR MEN AND BOYS.

NEW SUITS

- " UNDERWEAR
- " FURNISHINGS
- " GLOVES & MITTS

You should see our combination overalls for the fall. No trouble to show goods.

J. P. BEAUCHAMP & Co

FRESH FRUIT

- PLUMS, PEACHES, AP-
PLES, CRAB APPLES,
GRAPES, etc.

Mrs. E. Ambler.

WANTED

A n active and reliable young man, well acquainted with Qu'Appelle and vicinity, to secure information for a Business House. Address with references, Box 643, Winnipeg, Man.

Suicide Near Edmonton.

A sad case of suicide is reported by the Edmonton Bulletin. It appears that Charles Gustafsson, a Swede about 45 years old who lived twenty-two miles up the river, accidentally shot himself in the thigh producing a painful though not necessarily fatal wound. Being far from human aid it is supposed he committed suicide to relieve himself from the unbearable misery. He had ended his life by placing the muzzle of his rifle in his mouth and pulling the trigger. He had been dead two days when found and was in a horribly mutilated condition, the head and face being almost blown off.

An American half breed, named Robt. Stevenson, alias Charles Scott, alias Steve Davies, was arrested by Corp. Lewis on Thursday evening last at Lethbridge on a charge of maiming a horse by shooting it. It afterwards transpired that he had stolen one if not two horses and sold them. He was up before Capt. Deane on Monday and committed for trial on one charge of horse stealing and comes up again on Monday next on the other charge. His movements in the neighborhood for the past month have been very questionable. He was fully armed and tried on a game of bluff when taken.—Lethbridge News.

MARKETS.

LOCAL.
Beef, dressed....	7
Butter.....	15
Flour, per bag....	2.50
Hay.....	2.50 to 3.60
Wheat.....	70 to 73
Oats.....	35 to 40
Lard.....	15
Hogs, dressed....	6 to 64
Eggs.....	12 1/2
Hams, retail....	17
Breakfast bacon	17
Coriander.....	4.00 to 5.00

WINNIPEG.
Beef, dressed....	61 to 7
Veal.....	7 to 8
Mutton.....	9 to 10
Hogs.....	61
Butter, dairy....	15 to 18
Eggs.....	13
Hay.....	$7 to $8
Oats.....	40 to 42
Lard, pure leaf..	2.60
Breakfast bacon	12 1/2 to 15
Hams, wholesale	15
Wheat, Ft. William	88 1/2

A Word in Your Ear.

("Always Hungry For Business.")

We do not hesitate to say that we want your trade. That is what we are here for. If you are near our store it will pay you to call in and see our goods. Our new stock of goods is larger than ever before and comprise all the latest.

UP-TO-DATE GOODS.

Because you have dealt with departmental stores in the past is no reason why you should continue to do so when you can get goods as cheap or cheaper at home. We carry a full line of

Groceries, Dry Goods,
Boots & Shoes, Crockery, Mitts and Gloves,
Fur Coats and Caps.

JUST ARRIVED,

A LARGE CONSIGNMENT OF

CEYLON AND ASSAM TEAS.

Try a 3 pound package for $1.00.

Great Reduction in Suits.

We will give you 25 per cent. off all Tweed Suits for one month.

C. T. BAILEY & CO.

MacCAUL & HARVEY

FOR

SCREENS

To fit all windows. Get them up before fly time.

Lamps Lamps

I can supply you with anything you want in lamps.

- HANGING LAMPS
- BRACKET LAMPS
- DINING ROOM LAMPS
- BEDROOM LAMPS
- STABLE LAMPS

All kinds and all sizes at prices that cannot be beaten.

M. G. McEWEEN.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given that on the twenty-fourth day of November, 1900, at the hour of two o'clock p.m., at the Chamber in the Town of Qu'Appelle, N. W. T., there will be held for sale by public auction in accordance with the terms and provisions of the Municipal Ordinance of the North-West Territories, providing for the sale for arrears of taxes, certain lands situated in the Municipality of South Qu'Appelle in the North-West Territories, particulars regarding which may be found in the issues of the Qu'Appelle Free Press of August 30 and September 6, 13 and 20, 1900.

J. C. SPARR,
Secretary, Treasurer
Municipality of South Qu'Appelle,
Qu'Appelle Station, N. W. T., Aug. 20, 1900.

THE QU'APPELLE

Flour Mill

Is now in full running order. The Steam Plant has been overhauled and put in first-class order, and we are now prepared to do

Chopping and Gristing

AT THE LEAST POSSIBLE COST

DAVID MOORE, Manager.

Get your printing done at the PROGRESS OFFICE.

JOHNSTON & CREAMER

Sale and Feed Stables,
QU'APPELLE STATION.

DEALERS IN CANADIAN HORSES.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

NOTICE is hereby given that under the authority of an Order of His Excellency in Council dated the 15th day of May, A. D. 1900, passed under the provision of Chapter 15 of the act 62-64 Victoria, all persons who were at that date indebted to the Crown on account of Suretyship (that not as principals) for have been relieved from all such liability. All persons whose patents which resided in the Land Titles Office were accompanied by Certificates of Liability as Surety for seed grain indebtedness, and whose Certificates of Title have been issued, subject to such indebtedness, should forward their Certificates of Title to the District Registrar, who have been instructed to amend such Certificates of Title by removing, from of charge the notification of the seed grain liability.

SEED GRAIN.

By order, JAS. A. SMART,
Deputy Minister of the Interior,
Ottawa, 20th August, 1900.